Firefox® Nightly

Firefox® Nightly

Get a sneak peek at our next generation web browser, and help us make it the best browser it can be: try Firefox Nightly.

Nightly is the first usable version of what will become Firefox

It is compiled every day from mozilla-central code

It is the first 6-8 weeks of the Firefox build “train”

Firefox Nightly

What makes Nightly different to Firefox?

Crash reporting and telemetry are turned on by default

First chance to see and use new and experimental features

Lots of awesomeness, with slightly less stability

Firefox Nightly

Why is it important to use Nightly?

The telemetry feeds are used to make Firefox even better

Trying new software

The crash reports are used to prioritise stability work

Give feedback

Filing bugs

A great way to better understand how Firefox is made

Seeing how problems are solved

You get to see, use and test new features before they get released

Better able to help others
